Cambridge International School

> We think the Cambridge Curriculum is superb preparation for university

Christoph Guttentag, Dean of Undergraduate Admissions, Duke University, USA

DO YOU HAVE WHAT IT TAKES TO BE A CAMBRIDGE SCHOLAR?

CONFIDENT in working with information and ideas – your own and those of others; ready to take intellectual risks and keen to explore and evaluate ideas and arguments in a structured, critical and analytical way; able to communicate and defend views and opinions as well as respect those of others.

RESPONSIBLE for yourself, responsible to and respectful of others; take ownership of your learning, set targets and insist on intellectual integrity; collaborative and supportive; understand that your actions have impacts on others; appreciate the importance of culture, context and community.

REFLECTIVE as learners and concerned with the processes as well as the products of your learning and develop the awareness and strategies to be lifelong learners.

INNOVATIVE and welcome new challenges and meet them resourcefully, creatively and imaginatively; capable of applying knowledge and understanding to solve new and unfamiliar problems; can adapt flexibly to new situations requiring new ways of thinking.

ENGAGED intellectually and socially, ready to make a difference; embody a spirit of enquiry, keen to learn new skills and receptive to new ideas; work well independently but also with others; equipped to participate constructively in society and the economy – locally, nationally and globally.

> Students we have who have taken Cambridge International A Levels do very well at our campus. They are very well-prepared for our curriculum and we find that they have a lot of confidence, but also that they have a good deep subject knowledge, (and) the ability to think critically and well.

Stuart Schmill, Dean of Admissions, Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT)

CAMBRIDGE RECOGNITION WORLDWIDE

Cambridge qualifications are recognised by universities and employers worldwide. Cambridge International AS & A Levels are recognised by UCAS, UK universities and institutions overseas as equivalent in standard and grade to the AS and A Levels taken by students in the UK. Students use Cambridge International AS & A Levels to gain places at leading universities worldwide including the UK, Ireland, USA, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, India, Singapore, Egypt, Jordan, South Africa, the Netherlands, Germany and Spain. In countries such as the United States and Canada, good grades in carefully chosen Cambridge International A Level subjects can result in up to one year of university course credit.

Over 45 universities in Canada and 500 US universities accept Cambridge International AS and A levels, including all Ivy League universities. Research has been carried out to explore whether Cambridge International AS and A Levels predict readiness for and continued academic success at US universities. Findings from a number of research studies suggest that the Cambridge programme compares favourably with other, more established, acceleration programmes in the US including Advanced Placement (AP) and the International Baccalaureate (IB).

Toby Van Ness took Cambridge International A Levels in Biology, English Literature, History and Thinking Skills at Lanna International School in Thailand. He gained admission to University College London, where he is thoroughly enjoying his studies in Human Science.

"Studying Cambridge International A Levels was a perfect introduction to university in the UK. I was able to fit straight in without any gaps in my knowledge or confidence! It was a perfect start and allowed me to really hit the ground running."

Lachlan Kermode took Cambridge International A Levels in English, Mathematics, Music and Physics at Auckland Grammar School. He also took Cambridge International AS Level Classics, Thinking Skills and Latin, the results of which were used for his university applications. He has been accepted to study Computer Science and English/Classics at Princeton University.

"Cambridge International AS and A Levels helped me with my acceptance into Princeton in that the academic curriculum demanded that I format my thinking clearly and present it in an understandable manner. They also made my application really stand out from the others. My Cambridge qualifications truly laid a solid foundation in my academic CV."

Nicholas Kogl was accepted to Harvard where he completed a degree in Philosophy. He is now studying an MPhil in Management at the University of Cambridge. He studied Cambridge International AS and A Levels in Mathematics, Economics, Business Studies and German at International Pre-University College in South Africa.

"My Cambridge International A Level studies were a magnificent introduction into many of the first year subjects that I tackled at Harvard. They not only provided an academic grounding, but also smoothed the psychological transition into university life and the drastically higher standard of work required. I could have used some of my Cambridge International A Levels to receive Advanced Standing at Harvard and consequently graduate earlier or pursue a Master's degree. Having that option was great, even though I did not choose to activate it."
